

CHALK THE WALK

Let's take our message to the streets... and sidewalks! We invite you to join us and folks across the greater Louisville and Southern Indiana areas in chalking the walk for Sexual Assault Awareness and Prevention Month on April 11th!

4.11.17

Write messages of awareness, hope, and healing with chalk on a sidewalk near you. Take photos of your work and post them to social media @thecenteronline @greendotkyana #NoMoreDoMore #cwfsaam. Each of our individual actions really do add up, so be a part of the movement.

Here is a list of suggestions to help get you started:

Know More. Do More. Believe prevention is possible.
Prevention is possible!
Sexual violence is NOT inevitable!
What's your Green Dot?
Consent is sexy! Make sure you have it – every time, every partner.
We believe you.
No one has to do everything; everyone has to do something.
1 in 5 is TOO many. Do something about it!
Healing happens.

Be the change you wish to see in the world.
Human trafficking is modern day slavery. #EndSlavery
Sexual violence doesn't have to be a reality.
We all can do something to stop sexual violence.
Create a world without violence.
Together we can end sexual violence.
"No" does not mean "convince me".
Everyone deserves to feel safe.
Break the silence. Speak up. Reach out.
Hands are not for hurting.
My clothes are not my consent.
